Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse in Dutchess County Launches New Website

New portal includes up-to-date information and enhanced accessibility

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., January 21, 2009 – The Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse in Dutchess County today announced it has launched its newly redesigned Web site to provide users with extensive, current, and relevant information about the prevention of child abuse. The web address is: www.preventchildabusedutchess.org.

Neil Eisenberg of Design Intervention Studio worked in tandem with the staff of the Center to produce a site which communicates the work, services and various initiatives that the Center provides.

Features and benefits of the Center's newly enhanced site include:

- Confidential and secure environment
- Flexibility and interactivity
- Helpful FAQs and links to related organizations
- Exec Director's Blog
- Staff profiles and photos
- Volunteer section
- Event information
- Video and multi-media links

"It is our hope and intention that this more robust website will provide the public with a better understanding of the devastating effects of abuse on children," said Sue Gould, executive director of the Center. "We encourage all members of our community to log on and stay connected, and find out how our many programs and services are making a positive impact in our communities."

About The Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse

The Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse is a private, non-profit agency dedicated to the prevention of child abuse in Dutchess County, NY. Our mission is to reduce the incidence of child abuse and neglect by providing education, prevention, and intervention services throughout Dutchess County. Last year, our programs served more than 13,000 children and 4,000 parents in our local communities. Our work is made possible by both public and private grants, and the generous support of our community. If you are interested in information about the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse, or would like to volunteer, please visit www.preventchildabusedutchess.org or call 845.454.0595.
